Major parties unite against KAP...again

Once again the major parties have united against KAP to undermine our ability to serve our constituents.

This is nothing new.

The Newman Government tried to strip us of staff in 2012 but Robbie and I were still able to table private members bills, debate legislation and hold that Government to account regardless.

It backfired with the LNP losing government after only one term in 2015. We then used our influence over the Labour Government to give us adequate staffing and we got on with the job of serving Queensland.

Now, the major parties have made a fatal error. They have proven without doubt that they are prepared to silence voices that speak against impotent leadership.

We have truly reached a crossroads in our nation's history when politicians unite against the voice of reason. KAP have proven we are the only party willing to stand by our principles in the face of open aggression and hostility.

We are the voice for those who don't agree with the direction our country is going and want real solutions to immigration, our economy, infrastructure needs and social issues.

Our country desperately needs leadership and we have proven we will lead on our convictions, not swing with the breeze.
